

Bird Notes.

By A. A. Simpson, C.M.G.

On 17th August, 1932, he stated that a small flock of the Common Bronzewing (Phaps chalcoptera) had come to his property at Burnside. The area was planted with wattles, and the birds came after the seeds. One nest had been seen high up in a Western Australian gumtree. This species had not been seen in the plantation for some years.
