

ERRATA:

Vol. XII, Part. 7.

Page 239.—An error has crept into my remarks.—It is said:—
“The White Goshawk is confined to Tasmania and the southern portion of Victoria.” This is incorrect, as the White Goshawk, or one of its sub-species, extends throughout Eastern Australia from Tasmania to Cape York, North Queensland.

Page 248.—In concluding my remarks on the Wedge-tailed Eagle, I say this Eagle is the largest in the world. Many countries claim that they possess the largest Eagle in the world. Authentic measurements are not obtainable to decide this question, so the writer again puts forward Australia's claim.
