

BIRD NOTES

lis) was feeding a young Horsfield Bronze Cuckoo. I followed the birds for about 20 minutes. The Wren was very busy the whole time, and I counted the number of times she fed insects to the hungry Cuckoo. I am sure she fed the bird eleven times during the period I had them under observation. The male Wren was at hand, but did not take part in the feeding.—Samuel Sanders, Jr., Moorook, River Murray.

—————:o:—————

Wren Feeding Cuckoo.—On October 17, I noticed a very interesting study when a little female Purple-backed Wren (Malurus assim-